

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION, PSYCHOLOGY & SOCIAL WORK (CEPSW) 2020 Learning and Teaching Awards

This paper outlines two Learning and Teaching Program Award schemes in 2020:

- CEPSW Teaching Excellence Awards
- CEPSW Special Learning and Teaching Awards

1. TEACHING EXCELLENCE AWARDS (self-nominated)

Purpose

The CEPSW Teaching Excellence Awards are designed to recognise staff who embody our values and reflect a commitment to:

1. Outstanding student experience and recognition of diversity
2. Innovative curriculum and resource design
3. Industry or professional experiences that involve deep partnerships in the educational experience
4. Cutting edge and authentic assessment design
5. Education that embodies Rural, Regional, Remote and Indigenous paradigms

Scope of Awards

Three (3x1) CEPSW Teaching Excellence Awards will be recognised in any year, with one recipient in each of the following categories:

1. A team or course initiative
2. Individual Academic staff (continuing or contracted)
3. Individual Academic staff (Casual Academic Teaching)

These three awards are $2000.00 in value, to be used for the purposes that will support the ongoing enhancement of teaching and educational quality.

Application Process

Applicants should submit a succinct claim of excellence in teaching which clearly outlines their approach, evidence and impacts against two of the listed areas above. The application should not exceed four pages.

Applications should be sent to cepsw.deaneducation@flinders.edu.au by 30 September 2020, after which a panel will be convened to make assessment.

Obligations of Award Recipients

Recipients will be expected to host a scholarly workshop for colleagues from across the College, facilitated by the Dean (Education). Recipients will also be encouraged, as appropriate to develop a University Application in the Vice- Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Awards.

2. CEPSW SPECIAL LEARNING AND TEACHING AWARDS

Purpose

This award scheme is peer nominated and designed to spotlight those colleagues who have exemplified the values, dispositions and endeavours that we should all pursue in CEPSW. They are leaders amongst us through their practices in and supports of Learning and Teaching.

Scope of Awards

In 2020, there is three (3x1) CEPSW Learning and Teaching Awards, with one recipient in each of the following categories:

1. Innovative COVID responses to promote student learning
2. Leadership and support of staff in Learning and Teaching in COVID-times
3. Impactful collaborations and team participation

All staff, regardless of classification as Academic, Professional, Continuing, Contract or Casual are eligible to be nominated for these awards. It is the nature of contribution that is likely to vary.

Each award is worth $1000 and should contribute to an increase in professional knowledge, way of working and/or enhancement of practice.

Application Process

Nominations should be submitted on the attached form:

- No more than two pages in total
- Be seconded by another colleague
- Provide a minimum of three claims with supporting examples, evidence, against one category

Applications should be sent to cepsw.deaneducation@flinders.edu.au by 30 September 2020, after which a panel will be convened to make assessment.

Obligations of Award Recipients

Recipients will be expected to host a scholarly workshop for colleagues from across the College, facilitated by the Dean (Education). Recipients may also be encouraged, as appropriate to develop a University application in the Vice- Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Awards.

All enquiries should be directed to the Dean (Education) via cepsw.deaneducation@flinders.edu.au.
